

United Nations

Department of Safety and Security

2022

RECRUITMENT ROSTER CAMPAIGN

To strengthen, broaden and diversify its workforce, UN Security has initiated a large recruitment campaign that will replenish its rosters of security positions for future job openings. The campaign covers positions at three levels, and represents a unique opportunity for intellectual challenges, exciting prospects, and the opportunity to contribute to a better world.

1

JOIN UNDSS

A UNIQUE OPPORTUNITY TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE

Across the world, UN Security enables all UN mandates and operations by ensuring their safe delivery. Join UN Security to make a difference for a better world and for a rewarding career.

WORK

FOR THE UNITED NATIONS

P3 & P4 | Security Coordination Officer

Security Coordinators handle a range of responsibilities and functions. They are responsible for analysing security risks, planning, developing, monitoring and evaluating the effectiveness of security measures. This may include analysing threat information, undertaking risk assessments and developing risk management measures. This requires collaborating closely with colleagues and many different stakeholders, supervising staff, thus requiring excellent interpersonal and relationship-building skills. At P-3 level, you will need several years of relevant professional experience and a degree-level education to join us, whilst P-4 positions require more extensive experience plus some exposure to management roles.

P5 | Chief Security Adviser

Chief Security Advisers provide close support to the highest-ranking UN Official and to the representatives of UN organizations who are part of the Security Management Team. Operating at a strategic level, the Chief Security Adviser leads a security team, manages relationships with local authorities whilst overseeing all security programmes and initiatives, mainly in complex environments. Equally importantly, the Chief Security Adviser works in collaboration with a large number of stakeholders within and outside of the security area. She/He assumes responsibility for managing human resources, budgets, training and communications. Naturally, these roles demand extensive professional experience at a senior level with exposure to leadership experience, and a degree-level education.

A P P L Y

2 UNDSS RECRUITMENT WHY JOIN UN SECURITY?

1| An international career like no other

As an international civil servant in UNDSS, whether you're operating at the frontline or playing a vital part back at our headquarters, you will make a significant contribution to our crucial mission and the UN's mission: taking collective action to build a peaceful world.

2| Endless possibilities

We offer careers that could take you anywhere, both in terms of your geographical location and your future possibilities. We're looking for tomorrow's leaders today, and we're excited to hear from you if you have the skills and potential we are looking for.

3| A rich, diverse and collegial environment

UNDSS is committed to building an inclusive organizational culture free from gender bias and discrimination. Our recruitment initiatives aim to enhance our diversity at every level, and from a wide range of people with different backgrounds.

3 BE PART OF THE UN SECURITY FAMILY WHAT DOES IT TAKE?

The profile of people who will thrive in UN Security all share certain features. People who are motivated to make a real difference. People who are selfless and want to serve humanity. People who are resourceful and who embrace challenges and new ideas. People who strive for professional excellence, with a culture of service.

If that sounds like you, applying to join us could be the start of a thrilling journey. Like us, you'll be passionate about teamwork, creative in finding solutions to security issues and committed to continuous learning. Your career to date will clearly demonstrate your unique talent, exceptional organization, communication and relationship-building skills.

Key Numbers

5,000+ UNDSS Staff

Present in 125+ Countries

Coordinating with 53+ Organizations

Each year, the United Nations helps over 264 million people access a Better World

We make it happen

UN Security
#securitymatters

Photo: WHO/Mwebembezi Edmond